

Hunter Defeats Patterson, Australian Tennis Star, in Straight Sets at Seabright, 6-2, 6-3

All Foreign Competitors Are Eliminated in Singles Play

Johnston, Williams, Hunter and Robert Kinsey Reach Semi-Finals; Miss Helen Wills Furnishes Surprise by Outplaying Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup

By Fred Hawthorne

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 2.—Cataclysmic tennis upheavals marked the third day of play in the annual invitation tournament of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club to-day. When the smoke of battle had cleared, it showed four Americans occupying the semi-final brackets in the men's singles as follows: William M. Johnston, Robert M. Kinsey, Richard Norris Williams 2d and Francis T. Hunter.

The most stunning upset of the entire season of play was supplied by Hunter, who conquered the great Patterson, winner of the so-called world's championship at Wimbledon last June, by the decisive score of 6-2, 6-3. Nobody had conceded Hunter a chance before the men took to the courts. In fact, it was so universally believed that the big Australian would make short work of the New Rochelle man that all but a few stragglers in the gallery devoted their entire attention to the match in which Johnston defeated Patterson's teammate, J. O. Anderson, by a score of 6-2, 8-6 on the grandstand court.

Williams came through by first dislodging Andre Gobert, of France, in the continuation of their postponed match of yesterday. When the men left off on that occasion Gobert held the lead 14-13, but on the morning the Frenchman was far from his best yesterday, and Williams took the first set at 17-15 and the second at 6-3, for the match. Gobert fought brilliantly at times, but Williams was on the ball like a hawk, hitting every shot hard and crisply, and always forcing the going.

Defeats Howard Kinsey In his next match the former national champion defeated Howard Kinsey, of California, by a score of 3-6, 6-0, only working into his record when half way through the second set, Kinsey, leading at 3-2 and using a chop and under-cut slice with great skill, looked like a possible winner at that stage, unless Williams developed more effective opposition than he had been showing. The question was, then, would Dick produce the tennis of which we knew him to be capable, and the Longwood star answered in a most satisfactory manner by starting a session of marvelous shot-making that even the hard working Kinsey could not stand up against. Williams won ten out of the next eleven shots in the second and third sets and the match.

Robert Kinsey, after finishing his postponed match with Zeno Shimizu, for a score of 2-6, 6-4, 6-4, went on to the court in the afternoon and eliminated Lawrence B. Rice, of Longwood, by a score of 6-0, 6-2, 6-3, and thus there were left two Californians and two Easterners to contend in the struggle for the Seabright challenge. Now to-morrow will be the date of the draw, however, will force one Californian and one Easterner out of the competition, for Johnston faces Kinsey in the upper half and Williams, who has won the East and the West will struggle for supremacy.

But the men's events did not furnish the only scenes of the day. In the women's singles Miss Helen Wills, of California, the sixteen-year-old school girl and national junior champion, defeated Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup, of Wilmington, Del., at 6-1, 6-2, 6-3, and in the third round. This match brought forth the most brilliant tennis of the tournament in the women's division, the entire match being distinguished by the volleys, exchanges and speedy rallying.

Mrs. Jessup Rallies Miss Wills gained her victory only by dint of superior play. In the first set she led at 4-0, and then Mrs. Jessup staged a stirring uphill fight against the rising star, bringing the score to 4-3. The girl from the Pacific Coast refused to be shaken by this show of strength on Mrs. Jessup's part, however, and won the second set, 6-2.

Miss Wills was not to be led in the second set, but after holding a 3-1 advantage was halted temporarily, as Mrs. Jessup, literally fighting with her back to the wall, gradually brought the game to 4-4. All other members of the crowd were on their feet, for the challenge, Miss Wills forced her way to the volleying position and outplayed the former national clay court champion in the last two sets.

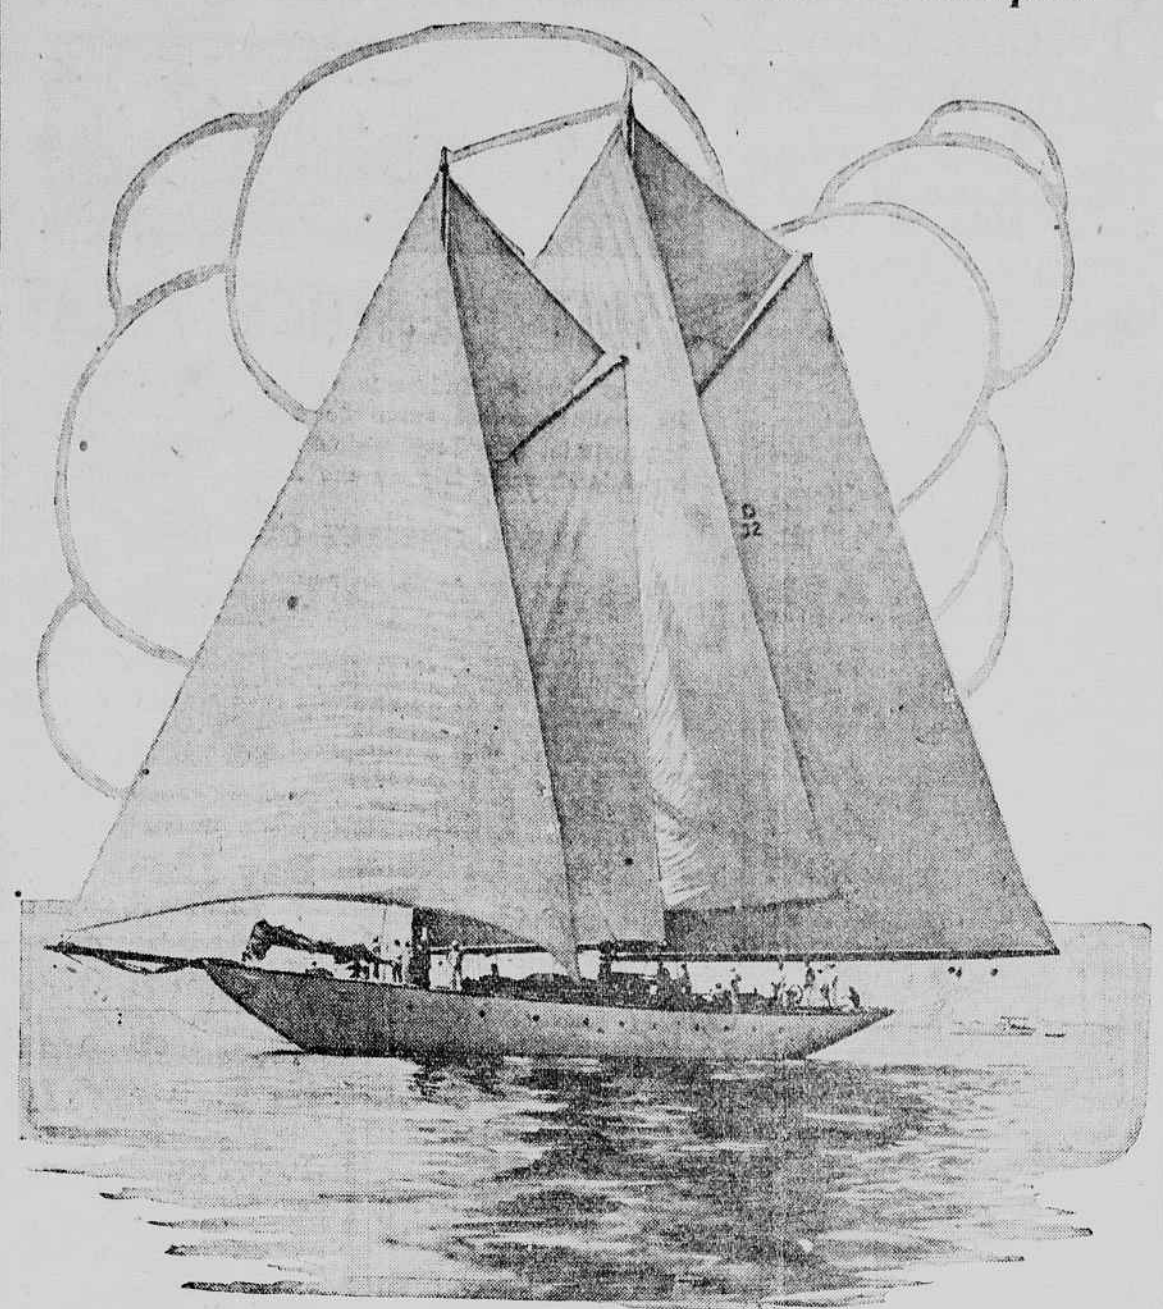

This match was by far the best tennis Wills has shown in the East this season, and it was not so much weakness on Mrs. Jessup's part as unexpected strength on Wills' part that gave the Californian the victory. Miss Wills was both accurate and severe overhead, and her forehand drives had more power and better control than Mrs. Jessup's. Tomorrow Miss Wills will face Miss Edith Sigourney, of Longwood, and one of the finest struggles of the season in women's singles should result.

Mrs. Edith B. Malory, the national champion, was going to play in her match against Miss Edith Sigourney, of Longwood, winning in quick order at 6-1, 6-1. Miss Sigourney was expected to make the match an impetuous one, for the champion, who was driving with furious pace, had cut off one of her forearms with beautifully angled volleys.

Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, of California, was going to play in her match against Miss Edith Sigourney, of Longwood, winning in quick order at 6-1, 6-1. Miss Sigourney was expected to make the match an impetuous one, for the champion, who was driving with furious pace, had cut off one of her forearms with beautifully angled volleys.

All-Star Cast on Lines In accordance with the picturesque custom here at Seabright James C. McInnes, the guiding guardian of the entire tournament, provided an all-star cast of line players for the Wills-Jessup match. Mrs. Howard Davis presided as umpire and Miss Edith Sigourney, of Longwood, acted as ball boy. The base lines were the mainstay of the tournament. From the captain's "bridge" on the second-floor porch of the clubhouse he is in instant touch with every detail of the play, and directs the players to the committee through a megaphone. Patterson's startling defeat by Hunter was not the only set-back the Australian experienced to-day. In the doubles, paired with J. O. Anderson, one of his team mates, he was defeated by Major Arthur Yencken, of the British Embassy, and Cedric A. Major, of New York, at 7-5, 6-2. Here again the unbelievable happened, for Yencken has certainly never been considered in the same class with the
